"The Remaking of the Raleighs," by Secretary of the Peru Legation, Scores at Columbia.

PROCEEDS TO GO TO CHARITY

A new American play by a Latin-American author, "The Remaking of the Raleighs," by Alphonso Washington Pezet, son of the Minister from Peru, and himself a secretary of that legation, was given its premier yesterday afternoon at the Columbia Theater. The young playwright, who proved himself an excellent actor-author, had the assistance of an all-society cast, and the encouragement of the most brilliant audience of the spring season. Even without the prestige of his offi-

of the character of the disappointed Mrs. Raleigh, going about New York in search of invitations to lunch or dine with her rich relations, her heart's desire for a house with twenty baths instead of a flat with one, and a cry for English bacon at least once a week was finished to a degree never seen in any smatcur performance in Washington.

Miss Elizabeth Noyes as the model daughter, sister, and friend, was also well done. This character will, no doubt, be subject to change in the professional production to be given it next autumn by Miss Mabel Talliaferro, who was one of the guests entertained by the parents of the author for this production.

Each of the seven characters was well rendered, with the entire cast working in admirable concert.

In addition to Miss Talliaferro, Minister and Mme. Pezet had in their box the Secretary of State and Mrs. Bryan, and Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of the President. The Ambassador from Brazil and Mme. da Gama, who occupied an adjoining box, entertained the German Ambassador, the French Ambassador, and Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont, Mme. Bakhmeteff had in her box her niece, Mrs. Edward Beale McLean, and Mme. Riano entertained their entire stuff. Other boxholders were Mrs. Charles Boughton Wood, who entertained Senator and Mrs. Chilton of West Virginia and Representative and Mrs. James R. McKea, of New York. Mrs. Thomas Richardson, Mrs. George T. Oliver, and Mrs. Thomas F. Waish all entertained parties.

The audience also included the Swiss Minister and Mme. Ritter, Mme. Hague, the Counselor of the German Embassy and Mme. Haniel von Haimhausen, Mrs. Henry Cleveland Perkins, Miss Perkins, Dr. and Mrs. Raiph McDowell, Mrs. Hennen Jennings, Mrs. Julian James, Miss Wetmore, Mrs. Garrison McClintock, Mr. and Mrs. Raiph McDowell, Mrs. Hennen Jennings, Mrs. Julian James, Miss Valarie Padelford, Miss Magruder, Mrs. Louis Bennett, Miss Bennett, the Misses Finley, Mrs. Henry C.
